Of Sweep Of Storm

(By International News Service)

A raging blizzard lumbered northeastward over the Appalachian mountains today, dumped massive loads of snow in eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania, sections of Virginia and West Virginia and sent temperatures plummeting.

An early tabulation indicated that at least 22 persons have died as a result of the storm.

The Pittsburgh area was virtually paralyzed under a thick blanket of 20 inches of snow, and it was still snowing.

The weather bureau predicted the snow would continue through the day adding another 10 to 15 inches to the snow blanket. Five Pittsburgh men died of heart attacks attributed to the exertion of combatting the snow.

In Cleveland, Mayor Thomas A. Burke proclaimed a state of emergency as snow fell on streets already made impassable by thick icy sheathing.

Over the eastern seaboard, the numbing cold wave moving east and warm south Atlantic winds collided to whip up one of the worst storms in many years.

Torrential Rains

New York City was lashed by torrential rains whipped by winds of near hurricane velocity. The storm extended up through Boston and into Maine.

High tides in New York harbor forced suspension of several ferries. Parts of Staten Island were flooded when waters on the Hudson rose to levels of the piers. At 8 a. m. the winds were clocked at 61 miles per hour. Two deaths were recorded in New York.

Streets along the waterfront in lower Manhattan, including several streets, were closed.

Like other establishments in the city, The News was also handicapped considerably in publishing this edition, because of the fact that a considerable proportion of the employees in the various departments failed to get to work this morning, due to the terrific snow of the night.

For the first time in many years, a considerable number of New Castle people employed downtown, walked to work this morning. The heavy snow storm paralyzed all kinds of auto traffic, no buses were running, and the only way to get downtown was to hike through the snow on the streets. And it was no easy task, as the snow was nearly two feet deep.

Many New Castle autos didn't rest in the family garage last night. Early this morning, cars that had been abandoned, were standing on many of the streets of the city, some blocking intersections. Cars without chains were stalled last night, and even some with chains couldn't make it home.

Heavy snow has also proved somewhat of a problem for household pets in the district. One dog owner was noticed throwing his loving pet out the door for his morning airing.

In passing, one wholesale dealer reported to Pa New that 25 barrels of auto chains were sold on Friday alone!

Today might be labeled "Postponement Day" if the amount of (Continued on Page Two)

WASHINGTON STREET SCENE AS CITY IS SNOWBOUND TODAY

Snow bound is today's name for Washington street which like all other streets and roads in this section was completely blocked to motor traffic. In this picture, made below Court street on East Washington, can be seen the jammed traffic lane. On the right is an interurban bus resting against a stalled automobile. In the center background is a loaded milk-tank, tractor-trailer jackknifed at Court street.

Greatest Continuous Snow In Pittsburgh's History

By TROY GORDON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—The Pittsburgh area was virtually snowbound today after more than 30 hours of snow which left a thick white blanket measuring up to 20 inches in depth.

The weather bureau said the snowfall would continue at least through today and tonight, leaving an additional accumulation of 10 to 15 inches.

Transportation Paralyzed

Nearly all forms of transportation in the metropolitan area were paralyzed. Some street cars and buses were trying to run—far behind schedule. Trains were getting through, but only a few commuter trains were scheduled for Saturday.

The deaths of five men, who suffered heart attacks, were attributed to unusual exertion in combatting the snow. Among them was Leo Wise, business manager of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who died in a physician's office last night after a two-hour attempt to drive to his home through the snow.

The extremely heavy snow was concentrated in the Pittsburgh area and south to Morgantown, W. Va. But other sections of western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and eastern Ohio reported deep snow.

Some passenger cars still were navigating—precipitously—in the Pittsburgh district. But many more had been abandoned in the streets, and were literally buried.

Weather bureau officials said it was the greatest continuous snowfall in the area's history.

Highway Plows Inadequate For 25 Inch Snow

Will Take 10 To 12
Hours To Open Roads

Incessant snow which began falling shortly after 5 a. m. Friday blanketing the area with more than 25 inches of snow by this morning has jammed county highways to the extent that it will take ten to twelve hours to dig out the roads, assistant county highway superintendent, Glen Huleman, reported at 10 a. m. today.

"The equipment we have on hand," according to Mr. Huleman, "is not built to take care of such a heavy snow which has been recorded in Lawrence county. As fast as we can possibly do it, we are renting equipment and bringing it in to get the main highways open for through travel."

All Roads Bad

All roads in every direction were reported as very bad by the highway assistant, and men who have been on duty since 6 a. m. on Friday are fairly exhausted and as a few men are replaced, they are sent home to rest.

Plows have been on the highways all night, opening lanes but due to the incessant snow which (Continued on Page Two)

Western Pennsylvania started to dig out of one of the worst snow storms in recent years, drifts that covered automobiles blanketed the area. Here a homeowner on Highland avenue clears his walks as children in the street enjoy the snow.

Report Korean And Chinese Troops Fleeing

Knockout Drive
Progressing Well
Is Day's Report

By IRVING R. LEVINE
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Nov. 25.—Chinese and Korean Communist troops fled for their lives today to escape from between the jaws of a gigantic United Nations nutcracker in the second day of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "end the war" offensive.

The westernmost spearhead of the massive pincers movement pushed to the rail and highway hub of Chongju, former Communist bastion, as troops of five U.N. countries drove ahead eagerly to fulfill MacArthur's prediction of victory by Christmas.

Advance Exceeds Expectations
The Eight Army said the offensive was "advancing in a manner that exceeds planned expectations" as field dispatches reported overall gains up to 13 miles since the jumpoff Friday against little or no Red resistance.

Spearheads of the U. S. 24th Division's "Task Force Stevens" were reported two miles beyond the abandoned Red bastion of Chongju in their race toward the Manchurian border 50 miles away. The opposite jaw of the Allied nutcracker meantime virtually sealed the fate of several hundred Communist defenders of the big east coast industrial complex of Chongjin and Nangan.

Elements of the ROK (Republic of Korea) Capitol Division bypassed both cities, eight miles apart, and advanced five miles beyond Chongjin to within 48 miles of the Soviet Siberian border.

The ROK troops also seized a road junction northwest of Chongjin, laying siege to an estimated battalion of enemy troops, whose only escape route lay to the north in range of big guns of the heavy Cruiser, St. Paul.

Less Than 50 Miles From Border
In addition to reaching a point less than 50 miles from the Soviet border for the first time, the ROK's at Chongjin were closer to the Tumen River Manchurian border than were eighth Army spearheads to the western Yalu border.

Capitol division troops northwest of Chongjin were only 40 miles southeast of Manchuria. The eight-mile border with Soviet Russia lies to the ROK's northeast.

As the jittery Communists retreated superbombs blasted two key Yalu river bridges with two-ton "blockbuster" bombs. On Friday the mighty B-29's also blasted front line troops with the type of aerial attack they are known to fear most.

Wrecked Plane On Mountain Is Not Reached

JACKSON, Wyo., Nov. 25.—(INS)—Expert mountaineers planned to ascend a hacked-out ice stairway up 12,000-foot Mount Moran today to where a twin-engine transport plane crashed with 21 aboard.

Paul Petzoldt and Blake Vandewater, both seasoned mountain scalars, chipped out a stairstep path up the slippery mountainside yesterday to within sight of the wreckage. They reported no sign of life. Darkness forced them to return to their base camp.

Signs of the wreckage were sighted from the air earlier by pilots of two private planes. They reported the large craft had cracked up nearly 1,000 feet below the peak of the northwestern Wyoming mountain.

Chief Ranger Paul Judge of Grand Teton National Park predicted the two mountain climbers will reach the wreckage today if good weather prevails. Since the plane cracked up Tuesday, bad weather and poor radio communications have hampered the search.

Council Hears Appeals Of City Employes For Raise

Employees of the police, garbage, streets and disposal plant departments appeared before council Friday afternoon and asked for a living raise in pay, after which Mayor John F. Haven and Finance Director Albert A. Hoyland went on record as being in favor of an increase.

Councilman Richard I. Davis reiterated his stand that if it is necessary to raise property taxes he had to be opposed to a raise.

Councilman E. Gene Schweinsberg and Joseph F. Medure listened to the requests but remained silent.

The fire department had no spokesman at the meeting.

Speak For Employes
Detective John Moore, city police, said he spoke for police, some of whom have four and five children and added it costs as much for a policeman to keep a family as the man who earns big money.

He concluded by asking the council to provide a raise in living wage.

Harry Bauer, streets department, said he met a man who pays on a property assessment of $50,000 who (Continued on Page Two)

SOME IDEA OF WORK OF STORM

Standard street scene in New Castle this morning is this of autos abandoned on Mercer street as motorists were unable to move them during the storm.

Storm Fails To Halt News; Other Features Of Big Snow

The show must go on.
And so must the newspaper. Or anyway the New Castle News.

Since it published its first edition in September, 1880, The News has never missed an edition by reason of weather conditions.

All records for snow storms went topping early today. There never was such a snow storm in the memory of man in this district.

About 25 Inches

The weather station early today said 25-inches had fallen and more fell during the morning. At noon it was believed the fall was about 30 inches with no guarantee it wouldn't go to 36 or more.

Traffic came to a halt. Cars, trucks and busses were abandoned in the streets, some of them at right angles to the curb, some of them at crazy angles, some of them on the sidewalks.

Stores didn't open, telephone service was on an emergency basis, and bulldozers were being sent wherever they were available to break open trails.

One hardy soul drove his car downtown this morning and as far as is known he was the only one Dudley M. Arnold of East Leasure avenue managed to get into the street and drove downtown. Not fast, but he made it.

Most Stores Closed

Few stores were opened, although fortunately some food stores opened around 9 o'clock and a rush for foodstuffs was on.

Some early scenes were noticed over the city.

Cars parked at the curbs had snow nearly three feet high on them.

All the traffic on the streets was foot. Driveways were drifted to four and five feet deep.

City Detective John Moore suffered a heart attack about 10 (Continued on Page Fifteen)

New York Is Storm Lashed

Metropolis Struck
By Worst Storm
In Many Years

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Heavy rains, whipped by near-hurricane force winds that reached 61 miles an hour, lashed the New York metropolitan area today in the worst storm in many years.

Unusually high tides forced water over the sea walls along the waterfront, flooded large areas and forced suspension of several ferries.

Staten Island ferries were out of service. These included those that run between Brooklyn and Staten Island, and from Manhattan to Staten Island.

Ferry service to New York from the Erie railroad terminal in Jersey City was suspended temporarily by high tides and winds.

Weather bureau officials said the snow laden cold wave from the mid-west clashed with warm winds from the south Atlantic causing the turbulent storm.

Two Reported Killed
Two persons were reported killed in the storm that blew out plate glass store fronts and knocked down trees, television antennas and fences. Several other persons were injured.

Parts of Staten Island were isolated as homes and other building basements were flooded from Dongan Hills to Great Hills on Staten Island.

TAKES ADVANTAGE OF STORM CONDITIONS

While snow blocked traffic lanes to motor vehicles, the northern mode of travel was put to use this morning. Here, Victor Kalnan of 742 Countyline street, is shown coming down East Washington street this morning on skis to shop. Mr. Kalnan was able to travel a full block while others were able to go only a few steps.

New Castle And Lawrence Co. Battle Storm

Record Snow Halts
Traffic And Many Other Activities

New Castle and Lawrence county are snowbound today, and that is no exaggeration. By noon, approximately 30 inches of snow had fallen, since Friday morning, and the forecast by the various weather bureaus in the area was that it might continue throughout the rest of the day.

Very little traffic moved, and even the state highway and city's snow plows were stalled, unable to get enough traction to get through. At 10 o'clock this morning, however, one highway department plow in front of a big dual wheel truck battled its way down Wilmington avenue and Jefferson street, travelling south. How far it got was not known.

Only a few stores were open in the downtown district, and these were mostly restaurants, drug stores, and food establishments.

Report was made to the city fire department that a roof at the plant of the New Castle Duntile Co. had caved in, and the roof on an old residence at 18 East Division street also fell through with the weight of the heavy snow. No injuries were reported.

Bulldozers Used
Bulldozers were being put to good use throughout the day, to clear streets, and were about the only vehicles which seemed able to buck the heavy snow.

There was very little train service, in fact trains due here hours before were battling their way along the lines trying to get through. There was no bus service, either inside the city, or out of town. The railroads were ordering in high power snow plows from areas which have this kind of equipment.

It might be said, that the district did not have the kind of equipment to cope with the situation. Nothing like it had ever been experienced before, either on the 25th day of November or any other day in winter. It was a freak storm which descended on the lower Great Lakes region, moving in from the middle west, and it stayed longer than it was supposed to. It was an unpredictable event, never before witnessed by local residents in this section, and may never be seen again.

No Mail Service
There was no mail service. The hardy souls who man the windows got them, and had the various windows open on time, but the postmaster himself, was snowed in at his Highland Heights home. At 10 o'clock the windows all closed, because there was not enough business to warrant keeping them open. There was no delivery service city or rural.

City firemen answered a number of alarms, none for any fires of any consequence, and up to noon, had been able to answer all calls. This was due to the fact that the trucks have high wheels, and stand high off the ground, and had enough weight to get through to the ground underneath for traction.

Fire Chief Steinbrink, however, urged residents to use all precautions (Continued on Page Two)

That heavy snow of eighty eight, about which grandpa used to prate, was quite a snow, a doozeroo, so was the one of ninety-two, it piled the moor and fen. And as a boy quite on the sly I'd mention snow and this reply would stop me, way back when, "the snow was piled up to the roof and up the barnyard door," but after what I've seen today, there's this trite thing I'd like to say, "we'll hear that yarn no more." There's twenty inches more or less, there may be more, there is I guess, the records can't survive, and Grandpa's yarn has gone to pot, he'll find a new one like as not, the weather's twenty-six.

All Bus Service In City, County At Standstill

City and county bus service was at a standstill as of early this morning.

All runs were cancelled, including the Greyhound, Harmony, Smeal and Shenango Valley Transportation lines.

One attempt was made this morning at 6 o'clock by the S. V. T. when driver T. W. Spiers, who maintains the Highland avenue and Mahoningtown run. The run was not completed however, as the bus became bogged in the snow in the north hill section.

Bus depot manager, Frank Sgarlaglino, reported that two runs were completed by the Smeal Bus company to Ellwood City, this morning. Drivers, John Ross and Mike Duffante, started on their runs at 5:15 a. m. and 5:50 a. m., respectively. They completed the runs in four hours—being several hours late.

Buses were unable to reach the New Castle Junction this morning to pick up passengers stranded there since 6 o'clock this morning. The passengers alighted from train No. 9—the New York to Akron, O. run. Smeal company reported that a bus was being equipped to meet the hazardous road conditions in an effort to reach the passengers and transport them to town.

tions to guard against fire, because it might be possible that the equipment could not get through to side streets.

Many Postponements

Life and even death was halted by the storm. Weddings, which were scheduled for over the weekend, were postponed, and funerals also scheduled for the period were postponed until later.

Telephone service was being well maintained today, but only on an emergency basis. Manager N. N. Jaquish stated this morning. During the early morning hours, the girls on the night shift who stayed over until relief arrived, were hard pushed, but the day turn operators struggled through the snow to the exchange on South Mercer street, to keep service going. The night girls, who were unable to get home, were housed at The Castleton, and arrangements were made to furnish lunch for the girls on duty today.

Some daring souls tried to buck the storm with autos, but only a very few got through. Cars were stalled everywhere, some in the middle of streets and roads, where their owners finally had to give up. Buses were also in the same predicament. One Highland bus made it as far as Grant street, where the driver was waiting for help from the garage to get it back to the garage. One group of young fellows in a convertible made it up over Highland avenue at 8:30 o'clock. There was a fair sized track in the middle of the street, and whenever it stalled, several of the occupants would get out and bounce up and down on the rear fender, until the thing picked up a little momentum and kept moving up the hill. How far it went, is not known.

Downtown, merchants and building owners were trying to get the paths shoveled through to the sidewalks in front of their places, and were having some success.

At 11 o'clock the snow stopped, but for how long, one could not say, because the weather man has forecasted more throughout the day.

calls received by The News to postpone various functions is any criterion. Weddings, funerals and social functions of every nature were cancelled and moved to future dates due to the heavy down-fall of snow which kept most residents at home.

Some of the town motorists who got stuck in the city overnight evidently curled up in their cars and remained all night. An Ohio motorist was observed at an early hour this morning curled up in his car parked at East Washington and Court streets, sound asleep.

Pa Newc reminds the residents, not to forget the birds in this snow storm. If possible leave food for the birds where they can see it.

Where it came from, we don't know, but it was reported that a bread truck was making its usual rounds on South Jefferson street, below the Diamond this morning.

The only kind of life which seems to have gotten a break because of the storm is the deer. The doe season was due on Monday, and indications point to the fact that the does are safe, if they can keep their heads above the snow.

The men who handle the night mails at the post office, Wyatt Patton, of the Harlansburg road, and Robert Powers, of Lakewood, "had to get rooms at the Y. M. C. A. today. They couldn't even attempt to go home. Powers is a transfer here from New York City, and saw the record snow a few years back which cost the city of New York five million dollars to clear away. He is debating which "was the worst, New Castle or New York's."

Andy Vivian of South Jefferson street will remember the storm. He had a light pickup truck, a 1929 A model, marooned in the Central fire station lot. Somehow the truck bucked its way through the drifts to Jefferson street.

to dig the city out of at least seven inches of snow that accumulated during the night.

Police were kept busy all night answering more than 350 calls from stranded motorists. They were also called upon to rush ten expectant mothers to hospitals through almost impassable streets.

In one case the storm almost got them first, necessitating a quick delivery in the garage of a Greater Cleveland home.

Firemen fought two one-alarm fires in below freezing temperatures. The damage was slight and no one was injured.

In evacuation hospitals in Pusan, Korea, more than 18,000 men were admitted but only 40 died in the first three months of the conflict.

Deaths Of The Day

Mrs. Catherine Keeley Murphy
Mrs. Catherine Keeley Murphy, aged 77 years, died this morning at 1:01 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Kelly, Pulaski road, R.D. 3. She had been ill for one year.

Mrs. Murphy was born in Belfast, Ireland, November 12, 1873, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kelly. She resided here since 1891 and was a member of St. Mary's church, the Little Flower club and the Rosary society of the church.

Her husband, James, died in 1925.

In addition to her daughter, Mrs. W. Kelly, a sister, Mrs. J. McDowell of Sharon, survives; six grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The body is at the Zehner funeral home, North Beaver street, where friends may call Sunday, 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 o'clock. Funeral arrangements will be announced Monday.

centrated chiefly on the Manpojin bridge on the central border, were the first use of the "blockbuster" in nearly five months—since early summer.

Developments

These briefly were the developments on the far-flung fighting fronts:

NORTHWEST—24th Division spearheads reached Chongju, unconfirmed air reports placed 25th Division spearheads only four miles southeast of enemy base of Unsan. Other U. N. troops were placed 14 miles north of bypassed Tokchon with Red troops fighting rear guard action against ROK's to east of city. U. N. forces on front include American, British, Australian, South Korean and Turkish troops.

Stalled elements of the ROK First Division on the Eighth Army's eastern flank reported strong counterattacks by a regiment of Chinese. The blow drove the ROK's back several thousand yards. They regained the ground, however, with air support and at last report are awaiting artillery support before blasting their way into Taechon.

NORTH CENTRAL—Seventh Division's 17th Regiment at Yalu border City of Hyesanjin reported no opposition. First Marines reported no activity in their sector but air reports estimated an enemy battalion at the town of Changjin, 22 miles north of the outlet of the reservoir bearing the same name.

NORTHEAST—Capitoli Division virtually surrounded Chongjin but a 10th Corps spokesman said they had received no reports that the ROK First and 18th Regiments had actually entered the city from positions on the southern and western outskirts.

To the officers and men of Task Force Stevens, who had advanced along the same road once before only to be forced to retreat to avoid entrapment by overwhelming greater numbers of Chinese Communists, their westward push advanced past familiar scenery.

New Jersey ferries rode on the upper decks and the waters of the Hudson rose to the level of the piers.

The weather bureau said that the winds reached a peak of 61 miles per hour shortly after 8 a. m. along. Winds of 30 to 50 miles, with gusts of 50 miles an hour are forecast with the rain changing later to snow.

Residents in New Dorp, Staten Island, were ordered to evacuate their homes when sea water backed into the area. All available police cars and fire equipment were pressed into emergency service.

Streets along the waterfront in lower Manhattan were under a foot and a half of water. This included the area around Broad, Pearl and John streets, in the financial and insurance company headquarters area.

A large broke loose from a Brooklyn mooring.

Airplane traffic was curtailed, but still was operating from New York airports.

One gust of wind at Idlewild airport was registered at 80 miles an hour.

fell, the roads were soon clogged up again. Several pieces of equipment were snowbound and had to be rescued by other machines.

The department hopes to get main arteries open first before attention will be paid to the secondary roads. With the snow still falling at mid-morning, it is hard to determine Mr. Hileman stated that when the highways would be actually open, but if it should stop, traffic should be moving by mid-night tonight on the main roads.

COUNCIL HEARS APPEALS OF CITY EMPLOYEES FOR RAISE

said a raise of one mill would not "hurt" him. "You will be criticized regardless of what you do," he informed council, and said that, relative to the now defeated amusement tax, "when they raised the price of admission, none of them came in and asked you anything about it." He pointed out it is a luxury and a city tax would mean little. He cited the cost of pork chops saying he was charged "50 cents for a bite."

Bauer also asked council to request the bus company for passes for street workers who must get to work early and said that as much as leaves are collected and streets asked, a raise was not too much to ask of property owners.

Roy McMillen, disposal plant, said the city has a good organization and said industry has a differential for night and day work. He pointed out city employees do not enjoy the benefits of a retirement or social security system, after which he said his next is "up" but the tax rate here is lower than in most places. He said the tax rate had not gone up in proportion to other things, and advocated a raise, regardless of where the money came from.

In reply to a question, Mr. Hoyland informed Mr. McMillen that the triennial tax assessment increase during recent years had been insignificant.

Cecil Bastley, garbage department, said "we are underpaid, that employees learn less than $9 a day and we are entitled to a fair raise." He said city employees are a minority group and asked why the majority, who draw big money, should object to city workers drawing a few pennies raise. He said the federal government puts on a tax and nothing is said about it, to which Mayor Haven added: "And it is not being spent at home."

Mayor Gives Attitude

Mayor Haven took the floor and said:

"I do not wish any one to misunderstand where I stand. I have served practically seven years as mayor and can say the city has received fine service from all departments. We are at times criticized but must expect that. I want to say I appreciate the way the departments have worked since I have been mayor."

"No one is kidding about inflation. It is here. One dollar is worth only 50 cents and I do not understand how some of you employees get along. I know none of you are dishonest and none of you steal in order to live, but I feel you do not receive enough to live on, considering what our money is worth."

He said that when raises have been asked in the past, city employees could have crippled service and added "I wish to thank you for considering yourselves, the city and citizens as a whole."

"I think council and I appreciated that. I have been concerned with wages. When people are paid a fair wage they do a good day's work. I know you are doing a good job. I wish to tell you where I stand, and that is, I am in favor of a raise in pay."

No Provision For Raise

The mayor went on to say that the way the 1951 budget is now set up, there is no provision for a raise. "We are about $80,000 short," he said then added:

"I am in favor of a raise regardless where the money comes from. The amusement tax was voted out and some councilmen do not want the property tax increased, hence you may not get a raise."

"When the time comes to vote for a raise, I'll vote for it. If the property tax must be increased to do this, I'll vote for an increase."

He next referred to petitions against the amusement tax. He charged that high school students signed some, some other people signed several times, and pointed out "Union township has an amusement tax."

"The boys had enough votes to defeat me, but I'll vote for a raise no difference where the money comes from."

Mr. Hoyland arose and spoke as follows: "I am in favor of a raise in wages because I believe it is just what I see prevailing wages all around. When it comes time to vote, I will be voting for a raise in wages, believing it to be just and also feeling that YOUR public and MY public will feel I have done the right thing."

Mayor Haven spoke again saying

Many business firms in Cleveland did not open their doors today and urged their employees not to attempt to come to work.

A gas shortage struck Cincinnati as the mercury dropped to eight above zero. Vice-president Walter Keagy of the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company appealed to commercial and residential users to reduce their needs to the minimum.

Ten Deaths In Michigan

Detroit was whipped by wind and snow and the temperature dropped to 12. Ten inches of snow were expected by nightfall. The storm already has taken a toll of 10 deaths in Michigan—three in a plane crash during a blinding snowstorm at Benton Harbor and seven in an auto accidents.

North of the border, the storm hit even harder. Southern Ontario was buried under 30 inches of snow. Five persons were killed in accidents there.

The southeast felt the last of the outlying winds of the storm. North Carolina had its first heavy snow of the year, with a fall of two inches at Winston-Salem and Asheville. Temperatures ranged down to 20.

The temperature fell to five above at Birmingham this morning and snow flurries were predicted for northern Alabama tonight.

street car and bus service, without much success. The few persons who made it to work this morning walked, rode the few commuter trains, hitch-hiked or spent several nerve-wracking hours driving.

Airlines cancelled all flights into and out of the area. Many inter-city bus lines gave up attempts to follow schedules.

The Pitt-Penn State football game, scheduled for this afternoon in Pittsburgh, was a likely victim. However, at mid-morning the game still had not been cancelled.

The telephone company appealed to residents of the area to leave all lines—both local and long distance—open for emergency calls.

Nearly all forms of transportation in the metropolitan area were paralyzed. The Pittsburgh Railway Company said not a street car or bus was running in the city, but attempts were being made to set up ten "basic" routes to serve all sections.

The Greyhound line and other bus companies cancelled all trips, as did the airlines. The railroads were running—but very late.

Time To Think About Christmas Decorations

The Thanksgiving turkey is a wreck by now, a casualty to the healthy appetites of the family.

Falling temperatures, snow flurries and frost on the window panes remind us that Christmas is just around the corner.

This year make it a year of decoration, inside and out. We have a complete line of all kinds of decorations, for the rooms, for the porch or for the yard.

Time to think about it and we are.

SOCIETY & Clubs

MODERN EIGHTS WITH MRS. MARY ROZZI

Mrs. Mary Rozzi, of 1131 Dewey avenue, entertained members of the Modern Eight club at her home on November 22.

The hostess served a delicious Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings, assisted by her special guests, Mrs. Elsie Pallott, Mrs. Rose Cimino, Mrs. Nancy DeRose, Mrs. Margaret Nemo. The table was nicely decorated in Thanksgiving style. Each special guest received a gift from the hostess.

Later, the girls exchanged names for Christmas gifts. Monte Carlo cards was the evening diversion, with Mrs. Betty Rozzi winning the door prize. Mrs. Marie Stefano captured the club token. Next meeting of the group will be at the home of Mrs. Betty Rozzi of 211 South Walnut street, on December 6, at eight o'clock.

Bu-Pi-Gar Club Meets

Mrs. Alvera Tedesco was honored with a hankie shower in observance of her birthday, Wednesday evening, when members of the Bu-Pi-Gar Club met with Miss Dolores Genovese, Morton street.

Games were played, Mrs. Alvera Tedesco and Mrs. Mildred Smarrelli capturing the prizes. The latter also received the door prize.

Later Mrs. Smarrelli conducted a brief business meeting.

Mrs. Margaret Valletti assisted the hostess serve a delicious Thanksgiving lunch, later in the evening.

Mrs. Edith Lauro, of 927 Marshall avenue, will be hostess on Wednesday evening, December 6.

COOPER-WALLACE WEDDING ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie D. Cooper of New Bedford, Pa., announced the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Jane, to Thomas G. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace of New Bedford, at a dinner held in their home on Thanksgiving Day.

The young couple was married July 11, 1950, in Winchester, Va., by Rev. Ronald S. Wilson, pastor of the Winchester Presbyterian church.

The bride is a senior at the Pennsylvania State College and a member of the Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Wallace will graduate in December from the school of Diesel Engineering at Pittsburgh.

The couple left for a short honeymoon before resuming their studies next week.

Supper Club

Members of the Supper Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Sol DiLullo of East Lutton street, on a recent evening.

Cards and television programs were the form of entertainment. Card winners were Mrs. Ralph Abraham and Mrs. Frances Magee. A delicious lunch was served at a table, the Thanksgiving theme predominating. She was assisted in serving by her daughter Rosalie.

A Christmas party and exchange will be held at the home of Mrs. William Murphy, Butler avenue, the date yet to be announced. The meetings have been discontinued until after the holidays.

CAMINITE-NOVALESI THANKSGIVING RITE

White Chantilly lace over satin fashioned the bridal gown worn by Miss Anna Louise Caminite for her marriage to Mario Novalesi on Thanksgiving Day.

Scene of the impressive double ring ceremony was the Purification church of Ellwood City, with Rev. Vincent Galliano performing the rite at 10:30 a.m. Assistants were Rev. Fr. S. Josiwick and Rev. Fr. V. Bertoline. White baby mums, ferns, and candelabra decorated the church altar for the occasion.

Miss Caminite is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Caminite, 710 Park avenue, Ellwood City. Mr. Novalesi is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Novalesi, Wampum, Pa.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Dominic J. Caminite, the bride was attractive in her gown styled with a fitted bodice and long full sleeves. Seed pearls and satin roses further enhanced the edge of the bodice's nylon net yoke. A crown of Chantilly lace and seed pearls caught up her fingertip veil of imported English nylon net. She carried a Mother of Pearl prayerbook topped with a white orchid and streamers of stephanotis.

Miss Mary Morabito attended her cousin as maid of honor, wearing a pastel orchid gown of net and lace over satin. A matching bandeau and bouquet of yellow tea roses were pretty accents.

Dean Novalesi served his brother as best man.

A wedding reception for 40 guests was held at the bride's home, with the couple later departing for a honeymoon to New York City, N.Y. They will reside at 231 Fourth street, Ellwood City, upon their return.

The bride is a graduate of the Lincoln high school of Ellwood City and the groom, a graduate of the Wampum high school, is a carpenter contractor.

ADELINA MARCELLA ENGAGED TO WED

At a Thanksgiving Day dinner held for the immediate families, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Marcella, of 1024 South Mill street, announced the engagement of their daughter, Adeline, to John Petrillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Petrillo, of 1023 Fruit avenue, Farrell, Pa.

The engagement was revealed in tiny place cards, bearing the news, "Adeline and Johnny" stemming from the table centerpiece of a large bouquet of winter cut flowers.

A late spring wedding will terminate the engagement.

Miss Marcella attended New Castle high school and was graduated from the South Broward school in Hollywood, Fla.

Mr. Petrillo attended Farrell high school and was graduated from the Pittsburgh School of Mortuary Science. At present he is a funeral director in Farrell, Pa.

Guests who attended the dinner from Sharon and Farrell include: Mr. and Mrs. N. Petrillo, Mrs. Rose Petrillo, Francis Petrillo, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cannone, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Venetti, Mr. and Mrs. James Kaikos and Thomas Fazzone, of Cleveland, O.

BELL-CORNELL BETHROTHAL KNOWN

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bell of Enon Valley, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Arlene, to James Norman Cornell, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Cornell of Blairsville, Pa. Wedding plans are not completed.

The principals are attending Indiana State Teachers' College.

POSTPONE NUPTIALS IN ELLWOOD CITY

Because of the weather, the Durdich-Cavers wedding, which was to have been held at 9:30 o'clock this morning in the B.V.M. church in Ellwood City, was postponed until Monday. It will take place at the same hour, with the wedding reception Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Catholic Center.

JAMESON-SHENANGO ALUMNAE TO MEET

Jameson-Shenango Alumnae Association will meet Tuesday, Nov. 28, in the solarium of the Jameson Memorial hospital.

A movie will be shown at this time on the "Use of Intocstrin in Polio."

Harry Whites Will Observe Golden Wedding, November 28

Mr. and Mrs. Harry White, Rose Point, are looking forward to Tuesday, November 28, when they will celebrate 50 years of married life. The memorable occasion will be observed by holding "open house" at their home in Rose Point from the hours of 2 to 4 in the afternoon and 7 to 10 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. White will be remembered as the former Miss Mamie P. Dean, daughter of the late Jennie Jordan and Willis Dean of Harlansburg. The couple was united in marriage November 28, 1900, at the Neshannock U. P. parsonage with Rev. H. S. Boyd officiating.

KITTY ANN KEYES WEDS ARTHUR MIELKE

Miss Kitty Ann Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brady Keyes, 214 Cottage street, New Castle, was united in marriage to Arthur Dale Mielke, son of Mrs. Irene Mielke, R.D. 3, New Castle, in the Second U.P. church, November 17, at 6:30 p.m.

Rev. J. Calvin Rose, D.D., officiated at the double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with palms, gardenias and carnations, with candles on either side.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in white satin and lace. Tiered ruffles of lace and satin enhanced each side of the gown. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of pearls.

The only jewelry worn by the bride was a dainty rhinestone necklace, which had been given to her by the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Nancy Hagerty, was in a pink gown and Mrs. Butch Kadunce, the bridesmaid, of New Kensington, wore a blue gown. Miss Hagerty's gown was of net over satin with a little jacket and Chinese neckline. The bridesmaid's gown was of taffeta and had a V-neckline and satin back.

Brady Lee Keyes was best man for the occasion, the attendant was Fred Keyes, and the ushers were Ralph Mielke and Dick Reynolds.

The church parlors were the scene of the reception following the ceremony with 150 guests present. Mrs. Richard Davis served the wedding cake. Mrs. Zella Bradford and Mrs. Elmo Mason poured for the guests.

After a wedding trip to Columbia, O., by motor, Mr. and Mrs. Mielke will be at home in their apartment, 1030 Adams street.

TREVOR GRIFFITHS' SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Featuring a double cause for celebration, Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Griffiths of 732 Butler avenue observed their silver (25th) wedding anniversary Thanksgiving Day.

At five o'clock a delicious turkey dinner was enjoyed by the immediate family at a beautifully arranged table, which was centered with a silver bowl of white mums and silver and white candelabrum. The entire table service was carried out in silver and white.

Later in the evening a large number of relatives called to extend greetings and best wishes; the evening was spent chatting and reminiscing. Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths nee Margaret Lutton, are the parents of two sons; the eldest, Edward, who is a student at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., is married and the father of two little girls.

Mary Margaret and Edwina Ruth. The youngest son is Gaylord, a student at the New Castle high school. Mr. Griffiths is employed at the Penn Power company.

Out-of-town guests attending the event were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Griffiths and daughter of Wheaton, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clark of Youngstown, O., Mrs. Mae Brady and Mr. and Mrs. John Orchard and two sons, of Sharpsville, Pa.

RAGUSO-DePOLO WEDDING POSTPONED

Wedding ceremony of Miss Florence Raguso, 406 Waldo street, and Rev. Anthony DePolo, which was to have been an event of this evening at 7 o'clock in the First Pentecostal church, Pearson at Epworth street, has been postponed until 7 p.m. Tuesday evening. Rev. James Menzie will officiate.

DENTAL AUXILIARY HEARS F. RAFFAELE

Frank D. Raffaele, executive director of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, was the guest speaker of the evening when members of the Lawrence County Dental Auxiliary were welcomed into the home of Mrs. Hyman F. n.k. Glen-Moore boulevard, with Mrs. Benjamin Moresky and Mrs. John McCann as the associate hostesses.

Mr. Raffaele gave an excellent talk on the care given the blind and their rehabilitation. He showed examples of their handicraft and played a record of condensed reading matter of a current issue of a book, which is a remarkable boon to the blind.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses at the close of the meeting. The date and place of the December meeting will be announced.

NEHRU IS 'DISAPPOINTED'

Sane practical statesmen have known for a long time that it is impossible to transact fair and just business with Russia and that appeasement only leads to further Red aggressions because the Russians regard any friendly overture by a non-Communist country as a confession of weakness. Contracts entered into by the Communist government against non-Communists are not worth the paper they are written on because it is a prime principle of the Communist ideology to lie, cheat and commit mayhem if this will only advance the cause of Communism. Such conduct makes it ethical, from the Communist standpoint.

Latest example can be found in India. Jawaharlal Nehru has been trying to act as an "honest broker" between Communism and the western world. At least, he is given credit in most quarters for having such a purpose and we may as well give him the benefit of the doubt.

At any rate, Nehru has been on friendly terms with the Kremlinites and the Chinese Communies and has been favorable to giving the latter a seat on the UN Security Council, in place of the Chinese Nationalists. He didn't seem to get excited at the invasion of Korea which casts some doubt on his assumed "neutral" position.

But now Nehru seems to be awakening. He is at least disappointed. The Chinese Reds have invaded Tibet and are about to engulf the unhappy country which is defenseless except for its natural barriers.

The reason Nehru is now excited is that Tibet is pretty close to India and with the Reds in possession could make it uncomfortable for the people of Nehru's country. Korea was a comfortable distance away.

So Nehru is now protesting violently against the Communist rape of Tibet. And what happens? The Reds in China give him the brush-off.

If Nehru is sincere in his opposition now to Communism he ought to awaken to the fact that you can't do business with Stalin and his stooges and you can't gain anything by Red appeasement. It just doesn't work.

HEARTENING REPORT

It is announced by the International Council of Religious Education that the slump in Sunday school attendance in recent years has been reversed. Rate of increase in Sunday school enrollment is greater than increase in church membership and population of the country. Enrollment increased 7.03 per cent last year compared to a 5.8 per cent increase in church membership and a general population increase of 3.6 per cent.

Sunday school enrollment grew rapidly until 1930 and then a slump began. Now there are 243,454 Sunday schools in the United States and an all-time high enrollment of 28,893,789.

This is a heartening report. Unless parents see to it that their children are in Sunday school, they will not receive the teaching in Christian principles they out to have to round out their education.

The Bible was once the chief inspiration of Americans. It was the basis of their morals, directed their thinking and clarified their language. Many of the great speeches and papers of the nation bear testimony to its influence. Bible study should be encouraged and the best way to do it is through Sunday school attendance which happily is again turning upward.

ALPHABET ON PARADE

A rash of government agencies has broken out in Washington, set up to regulate everything from A to Z. Mostly they are designed to interfere with the daily lives of the American people, with particular emphasis on business and industry.

The list is a lengthy one, and growing daily. There are scores of new bureau sandwiches in with older setups. Thousands of persons are employed, with little to do.

Of all the agencies which have been activated by orders of President Truman under congressional authority, the most powerful is the NPA, the National Production Authority. Offices are located in the Department of Commerce building, from which there pours a daily stream of orders and directives to American industry.

The offices are cluttered up with business executives who are attempting to ascertain their positions under the new regime, or to clarify the directives which seem to be drawn up by functionaries who know little about the subject.

Many leave after several unhappy hours with feelings of frustration and irritation. But they are painfully aware that every directive sent out to regulate what should be free enterprise has a closing paragraph reminding them they can be fined and put in jail for failure to comply. The alphabet is again on parade in Washington.

Department store head who says women are becoming too satisfied with their clothes must be a bachelor.

Baseball game in Venezuela was interrupted by gunfire. Apparently Venezuelans haven't heard of pop bottles.

Perhaps the next war could be managed on the popular lay-away plan, to be called for at a more propitious time.

It is impossible, according to a magazine article, for Eskimos to insult each other in their native language. However, when an Eskimo gets hot under the collar he can always borrow a few words of English.

Curious Aspect Of Postwar Germany

One of the most curious aspects of post-war Germany has emerged today on the eve of elections in Bavaria which are scheduled for Sunday and which may throw light on the Reich's willingness to participate in western European rearmament.

It is the creation of a political party that is without precedent even in a nation that had 32 widely separated organizations before Adolf Hitler bludgeoned all into naught.

This new party has grown up in Dueseldorf, in the British-occupied zone of the Ruhr valley. And its mere existence throws a challenging focus on the problems of Europe, and particularly the inability of allied defense organizations to find a formula for success against possible Soviet aggression on the continent.

Its existence is important because of its formation and location in the Ruhr valley.

Heart of Industrial Strength
 That is the heart of Germany's industrial wealth and strength. It is the vital coal-producing area which French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman desires to integrate with the industries of Lorraine on the western bank of the Rhine in an economic-output tieup which could transform Europe from cockpit of war into an alliance of peace.

The new party is called by the name of "Socialist Workers of Germany."

Apparently it is well subsidized. Its propaganda circulation goes not through the Ruhr but is distributed abroad. Well-printed copies of fine paper are sent to editors in the United States.

The curious aspect in its objectives is seen in the fact that the party is violently anti-capitalist and at the same time opposed to communism.

Question Is Raised
 This combination inevitably raises the question as to whether a "Titoism" is coming to life in Germany, and as to whether this division of political opinion on world communism versus a national system of proletarian rule is to be a major factor in current affairs.

United States High Commissioner John J. McCloy and other political experts on the scene have made it evident from published statements that the west Germans of the present world are living in

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS? YOUR LITTLE TOT WILL WANT TO KNOW

Is there a Santa Claus? Of course. Old Saint Nick is about as real to the child under six as anything he knows, providing his imagination is not hampered by the foolishness of some adults. During these early years the youngster normally lives in a world of make-believe. Dwarfs and gnomes are his happiest companions. He walks with them and talks with them and Santa is the king of all of them.

Blessed is the little child who has parents with a good imagination, who can see what is not present to the senses, and paint word pictures and enjoy the verbal pictures painted by the child; parents who, furthermore, go often with this little person into his enchanted world. My bulletin, "Now Come the Fairies" may be had in a stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N. Y.

Some very conscientious parents have deliberately tried to keep their children, even the youngest ones, from believing in Santa Claus. They suppose the child on being disillusioned later will feel he has been deceived by his parents; also that the child may, later, treat as a myth all they have taught him about things religious. Even some "psychologists" who don't seem to understand a little child's imagination, have agreed with these parents.

Fearing Disapproval

But this belief overlooks the fact that children who seem to be harmed by the Santa Claus myth have had it crammed into them long past the time when they have outgrown Santa Claus, some as late as the age of eight or ten. Teachers, too, fearing disapproval of parents, have tried to prolong the myth unduly late in the life of the school child. Commercial organizations have done likewise. Treated as he should be treated, the average child outgrows Santa Claus before he is seven or eight.

How should the child be treated concerning Santa Claus? Pretend there is a Santa Claus and share your child's enjoyment of the myth until he asks, "Is there a real Santa Claus?" He means a Santa Claus who lives and breathes as persons do.

Calmly, frankly answer him, "No, but we have been playing he is real." Then go on playing so as long as he likes. Gradually he may choose the interpretation of Santa Claus as a symbol in the way Mr. Church did in that famous editorial answer to the enquiring little girl.

Own Children

As I have advised here, so we did with our own children, all of whom asked the searching question before the age of six. After each in turn was disillusioned we asked if we should "tell" the next youngster. Always came "No" with great feeling. In later years our children each assured us he felt no harm at all from our procedure. All now parents of young children (an aggregate of 11) themselves have dealt with Santa Claus as they experienced him in their early childhood.

Let me add that a good means of transition from the myth to reality is to have a few gifts at Christmas marked for each child from a person of the family, in addition to those marked "from Santa Claus".

a state of confusion, to say the least.

The Bonn government headed by Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer has laid down the principle of swearing loyalty to the western powers in exchange for economic and—if necessary—military support against eastern aggression.

Bonn Government Opposed
 But the Bonn government is opposed by extreme nationalists on the right and by diverse communist and affiliated groups on the left.

In western Germany, the communist-inspired hallucinations of some new sort of Russo-German hegemony under the Bismarck pattern have taken little root.

But it is still a fact and a matter of prime importance to the allied high command in Germany that important segments of the west German political entity are in favor of some such collaboration and the issue hinges tightly to that of west European defense plans.

A newspaper published in Dueseldorf, called the Free Tribune, is spokesman for the "split-splinter" organization which may hold a real clue to political thinking in Germany today.

It parodies communist east Germany's frequent flirtations with the supposedly disappeared Teutonic aristocrats.

In the same columns it attacks the alleged war-mongering ambitions of the western world.

At all cases, and in any sense, it represents in each issue the gravely-divided thoughts of a nation acknowledged again—by its immense resources and innate capabilities—to hold the fate of Europe almost at its fingertips.

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

If all the turkeys eaten Thursday were laid end to end, all the people who ate them would lay down with them about now.

All I know is that the diet kitchen in my block has a sign over the door that says "Come in and repent, sinner!"

And they changed the signs on our elevators from "Capacity, 18 persons, 2500 pounds" to "Friday only... capacity, 15 persons, 3000 pounds".

One thing about us Americans, if we can give thanks by eating our way through 10 courses you won't find a more thankful people anywhere.

I hear things were so quiet in one dietitian's office Thursday he took himself to lunch three times, subtracted the checks from the calories and came out a little ahead.

But today he's got 68 people banging the beam on his scale and murmuring "I can't imagine what happened... I barely touched my plate".

And that could be true too—a fellow with a good underhand fork swing can clean the plate and never touch it.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

It's rather useless to say that this snow storm is the worst we have ever seen... that doesn't mean much... having been on this old earth for such a comparatively short time... but when you hear chaps sixty years young say... they have never seen so much snow in such a short time... Then that does make some sense.

A few lucky people got their cars going this morning... but most just didn't try. Our own car is stuck in the middle of the drive... with the back wheels up high off the ground... Rather foolish to try and shovel it out... And the walking as most of you know... isn't any fun.

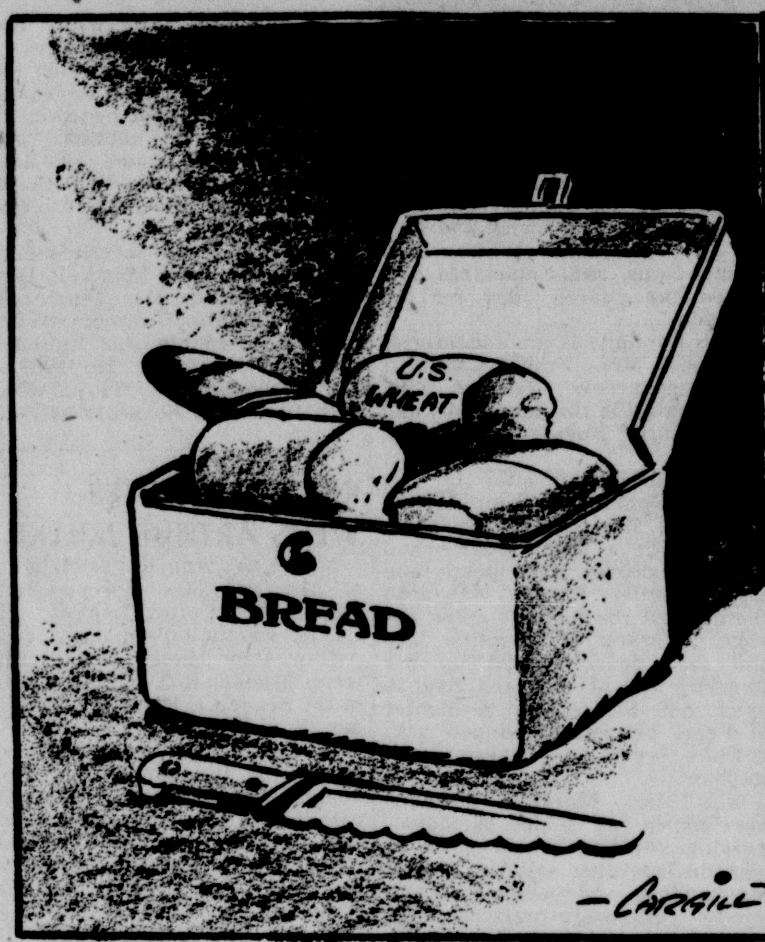

The cold... the wet snow... the depth of the snow... gives you some idea of what the armies in Korea are fighting today... but they haven't any warm places to crawl into like we have here... or nice warm meals... or a good hot bath.

Washington street at nine this morning looks like the deserted street of an old gold-mining camp... with summer visitors milling around. However we are pleased and surprised at the number of people who did make the effort... and it was an effort... to get to work. Here on the newspaper we have a nice crew out... Our printers are now busy... the paper must get out. We do wonder just how many papers will be delivered... If you get yours, then be sure to give special thanks to your carrier... for he had to really trudge along to make the delivery.

How long will this snow fall last... how will the snow go off... will it all turn to rain?... Those are the 64 dollar questions that concern us all. Be ready for any emergency... keep a close watch on the use of fire... it is now impossible for fire fighting equipment to move.

Until the streets are open... good luck to you all... and let's join in prayer that we all survive this ordeal in good health and good cheer.

Democrats Appear To Be In Trap

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The more the Democrats contemplate the months ahead, the more they realize the trap they are in. The old phrase—between the devil and the deep blue sea—has rarely applied with such literalness as it does to the party in power.

On the one side is the explosive pressure of rising prices. On Monday the latest consumer price index will be announced by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Since all prices have been steadily climbing, no wizardry is required to predict that it will be close to the all-time high reached in 1948 if, indeed, it does not surpass that peak.

The wholesale price index has already passed the high-water mark. Short of some sudden shift, consumer prices follow as night follows day.

No End To Trend

What is more, the ablest economists in government see no end to this trend. It may be temporarily arrested during the winter months as a result of cutbacks in consumer production. But this is likely to be only temporary.

Cotton futures prices hit an all-time high on the New York Cotton Exchange the other day with December deliveries opening up to 44 cents a pound. Natural rubber brought as high as 92 cents a pound for December delivery, with some slackening off indicated for after the end of the year. This compares with 20 cents a pound less than a year ago.

The Korean war and the rearmament program, plus the inevitable accompanying speculation, have been largely responsible. Some blame a sudden spurt of stockpiling which put the stockpilers into the commodity market at the same time everybody else was trying to buy raw materials. While the Korean war may be at a temporary standstill, the rearmament program has just begun to be felt. The likelihood is for pressures equally great during the coming year.

The Alternative
 If this is the devil, and a very active devil it is, then the deep blue sea is represented by the alternative, which is across the board controls with a rollback in prices. The fear within the administration is that such controls in "peacetime" would be difficult or impossible to administer.

One reason for the fear is the difficulty now being encountered on every hand in getting people to fill the limited number of jobs necessary to administer regulations now in force. Whether it is because the sense of urgency simply is not there or because government salaries look very small against inflated prices or for whatever reason, businessmen are just saying "No." The struggle President Truman is having to get a director of price stabilization illustrates what is happening on every level. It was though one man had been persuaded but at the last minute wriggled out. Cyrus Ching has agreed to be chairman of the wage stabilization board but eight full-time members are still to be named.

The administration of across-the-board controls would require not merely a number of new-paid officials. It would also take an army of volunteers willing to give their time as a patriotic service in an emergency. Whether such voluntary service would be forthcoming is a question.

Persistent Protest

Short of a full-scale shooting war, the public protest against price and other controls at the consumer level would be loud and persistent. The discontent would produce black-marketing and there would immediately arise the problem of how to punish violators. A fairly extensive black market has already developed in steel products with fabricators and manufacturers paying way above quoted prices.

But if controls would be unpopular, the pinch of rising prices is almost equally so. That is being demonstrated in a variety of ways. One of the factors in the recent election was resentment at the inflationary squeeze.

With the party in power caught in this unhappy position, the party out of power has theoretically only to sit back and watch the situation get worse, meanwhile supplying a few reminders that the Democrats must be responsible since there they are sitting in the driver's seat. But inasmuch as the national welfare is directly at stake, this may not be enough. The average citizen may expect something more than negativism.

To sit in the driver's seat in this twilight zone between peace and war is distinctly uncomfortable especially as the passengers grow restive and make rude remarks. But the simple process of changing the driver may not be enough in this instance to slow down the machine.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

GOOD ANNOYANCE

If the lad's a little noisy at his play

Just be patient and enjoy it while you may

Should the time come when he cannot race about

You'll be wishing that his little legs were stout.

If he talks when you are talking, as he will,

Then remember, were his voice forever still,

Though he'd frequently annoyed you with his chat,

You'd be wishing for annoyance such as that.

You were once a little fellow, father wise.

You were noisy and had mischief in your eyes.

But your father and your mother understood

It is difficult for children to be good.

They were patient, though they scolded now and then,

And they loved you with a love too deep to pen.

Although often you annoyed them they were glad

That health and strength to trouble them you had.

BUTCH AND HIS DOG

Butch has a dog. They are chums. He has him well trained. He is very careful about his feed and his dog companions.

Butch needs care and training, too. He will benefit by it. The community will get some benefit also.

If we take proper care of Butch and his little sister we will not need to worry much.

Butch loves his dog. He would risk his neck for him.

After awhile Butch will fall in love. By learning how to care for his dog he is learning how to care for his family when he gets one.

Poor Butch. We do not set him a very good example but he makes the best of things anyhow.

New School Of Philosophy

By PAUL GALLICO

It may not have occurred to you, but the last vestiges of the art of conversation in America are now relegated to exchanges between passenger and driver in taxicabs, and all else failing, may well give rise to the Modern or Taxicab School of Philosophy with the cab drivers assuming the role once occupied by Socrates and Plato and conducting their lectures between Union Station and the Travelling Man's Rest.

Certainly, between Canasta, Bridge and Television, the home is no longer the witness of the good talk that uplifts men's souls. And since the advent of the Lookies, conversation even of the slightly fuzzy and alcoholized type has been mechanized out of bars. Arguments that once flourished between two perfect strangers who had buttonholed one another over their beers are now stillborn as the occupants of the rum parlors sit regimented in one direction and gaze gloomily at a couple of babes on the screen jostling one another in a roller rodeo.

Only One-Way Conversations

The barber and the dentist still offer only one-way conversations, the bus operator is too darned busy doing with only two hands a job that calls for a minimum of five, the ride up or down in the elevator is too brief to find out what the pilot thinks about the situation in West Germany. The kids think that daddy is an old fool who knows neither the time nor the longitude, a judgment that may have something to it, so they won't talk to us. Where then can a man go for a bit of stimulating pow-wow? Why, to the cab driver naturally.

But how long it takes for an idea to catch on! You'd think we'd have gotten smart about that long ago because for years people have been saying, "Had a talk with a cab driver this afternoon coming up from the office—darned intelligent chap. He said... etc., etc., etc." Everybody more or less has a quote from his favorite cab driver or an anecdote involving what one of them said.

Formerly, one went about cherishing and repeating the bon mots of wits, thespians, philosophers, writers, journalists or arbiters of fashion. This is the measure of our changing American society when glamour, which was once symbolized by the Ziegfeld beauty, is now invested in hat check girls so that, as noted in a previous essay, they become news, and where small-talk or even large-talk and their residues are confined to cabs and their operators.

Real Democratization Possible

It may result, however, in a real democratization, and I look forward to living most happily in that society. For, from the matron who burlesques the edge of the Martini glass, "My dear, I had the most droll and fascinating cab driver today. He said the funniest things," it is only the next step for someone to remark, "Well, why not have him up here? He'd certainly exhibit more life than the dodos collected at this party," and a final one to invite him over for an exchange of ideas and viewpoints. The matrons would learn something. So would the cab driver.

It has been obvious for years that the American has a deadly fear of conversation, else why would he have invented so many horrors to avoid becoming involved in one? But he will indulge in one in a taxi because of the cozy limit to its duration. There is always the knowledge that before it can become a strain, the vehicle will draw up to its destination and he can remark to the driver, "Well, you're right. That Senator McCarthy is certainly a blabbermouth and a no-good," pay off and escape. Not all driver-philosophers are brilliant and there is always the knowledge that the bore will be swiftly curtailed on arrival.

Brevity Is Learned

But just because the trip is so short, your real driver-conversationist learns pithiness, brevity and succinctness beyond the fondest dreams of any editor. Hail him at the entrance to the Hotel de Gink and commission him to transport you to the Terminal and he knows he hasn't got all day to develop a theme. The ride will be seven minutes at its longest. So when you ask him what he thinks about the Korean situation or President Truman's policies, he tells you. No warming up, no trial runs, no beating about the bush. He outs with his opinion. This comes as a great relief to anyone who has listened to oratory, or some fog-head trying to rid himself of an idea in an after-dinner speech.

So remember now, when all the great chairs of thinking and discussion at our universities are occupied by former taxicab drivers, remember that you and I were the first ones who saw it coming.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Well, here goes again! The season of good will to men (and women) is approaching. Already the spirit has seized my wife and probably the wives of millions of other men.

Mine just made an announcement: As soon as I am through writing my column I must give her an hour to go over certain documents.

I know exactly what these documents are. They are now lying on her desk. They are today's agenda.

You might call the conference which we shall hold in a little while a meeting of the Security Council. Or you may call it the Political Committee.

What is going to happen at this meeting is both security and politics for the Brandeis family.

The documents in question are made up of names and special hieroglyphics, the exclusive code of my wife.

One document consists of those people who sent us Christmas cards last year and to whom we sent cards, too.

The next document consists of those who sent us cards but who got none from us. These will receive cards this year.

Document No. 3 is made up of those to whom we sent cards but who sent us none. These will be discussed and criticized at length, and it is quite possible that the veto will be invoked.

Document No. 4 is rather short. It gets a little shorter each year and contains "new friends and acquaintances."

My wife will deliver a little speech on each one of these new names and we will then decide whether they get a Christmas card, and whether it shall be Class I, II or III.

Estimates On State Relief Budget Being Revised

By JOHN PAGET
(By International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 25.—A balanced multi-million dollar relief budget is shaping up in Pennsylvania for the first time since the 1943-4 biennium.

Budget officials, who once privately conceded last spring that about $52,000,000 would be needed to complete the 1945-51 biennium next on the basis of a steady downward trend in the rolls.

They are confident the commonwealth can wind up the fiscal period within the $186,000,000 in state funds earmarked for relief in the two years.

Expect Rolls Reduction

Rising employment, reflecting stepped-up industrial activity resulting from the Korean war and accelerated defense work, US expected to further reduce relief rolls and slow the drain on funds.

Monthly state expenditures are running around $8,800,000 a month and embrace approximately 332,000 relief recipients. The federal government adds another one-third for its share of the aid to dependent children and old age assistance programs.

The state shares the cost of the two and bears the full responsibility for direct relief and blind pensions.

There is little hope among officials in the budget office or the Department of Public Assistance for pruning expenditure of state funds below a rock-bottom $6,000,000 a month.

Increased benefits plus higher operating costs precludes any lower estimate, according to fiscal experts.

About $150,000,000 in state funds will be needed for relief in the 1951-53 biennium plus the government's aid.

New Schedule Needed

Should the cost of living continue to mount, the DPA would not be unkind of the need for a new schedule of grants which would force the overall biennial estimate upward.

The government's contribution, added to the $186,000,000 in state money which will have been spent by the end of May, will boost the biennial relief outlay to approximately $246,000,000. The figure represents inflated costs and in terms of the pre-war dollar, a DPA spokesman said, it would take only a little more than half to meet current needs at the present rate of expenditure.

The peak of federal-state spending, including the WPA budget, was hit in Pennsylvania in 1938—a year when the dollar value was not inflated. In that year, joint expenditures totaled $361,754,390.

By the end of the biennium next spring, federal-state spending in Pennsylvania for the past 18 years will amount to approximately three billion, 286 million dollars. The commonwealth contributed to relief via various agencies until 1937 when the Department of Public Assistance was added to the government structure.

By the end of May, the General Assembly will have appropriated from the taxes of Pennsylvanians, as the commonwealth's share of the relief program, approximately one billion, 300 dollars.

Federal expenditures for the period reflect the millions of dollars spent in Pennsylvania on WPA during the late 1930's in addition to the support given the old age and aid to dependent children programs.

Shrine Luncheon Clubs Honors Sons

Members of the Shrine Luncheon club of Lawrence Caravan No. 15 had a fathers and sons dinner in connection with their weekly meeting in The Castleton Friday noon.

The dinner was held in the ballroom, with a fine attendance. The speaker was Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of the Second U. P. church, who gave a splendid talk on Americanism.

Remarks were also made by Rev. Thomas J. Jones, pastor of the First Congregational church, and by Julio Rivera Rodriguez of San Juan, Puerto Rico, who was a special guest of the club.

Dr. E. L. Vincent, the president, presided and the committee in charge of arrangements was composed of Charles Morrow and James Peacock. Encouraged by the success of the affair, it is planned to make it an annual event.

Door prizes went to Warren Morgan, Robert Chambers, Reed Hoffmaster, Charles Duff, Ronald Meek, John Jones, Clare Haver, Jr., and Thomas Getty.

Spiders are mentioned only three times in the Bible.

Murray Re-elected As C.I.O. President

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Philip Murray was elected by acclamation to his 11th term as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the closing hours of the annual convention in Chicago.

Bands blared and confetti was showered over the convention after Murray's name was placed in nomination by Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and delegates marched through the aisles for 15 minutes.

Guests in addition to the 650 delegates, representing some six million CIO members, joined in the demonstration.

In accepting the post for his 11th term, Murray said he did so "in a spirit of humility, and with a realization of the obligations that extended to millions of people."

Rev. D. E. McKaughan At Slippery Rock

McKinney Class Plans Big Dinner

Men of the McKinney Bible class of the First Presbyterian church are planning a big night for Thursday, November 30.

This is the date of the annual dinner of the class and a fine turkey dinner is being planned for the occasion. Accommodations are limited to 200, the committee in charge of arrangements states, and those expecting to attend will have to make their reservations early.

In connection with the dinner, the class plans to dedicate the beautiful Hammond organ, which was purchased by the class as a memorial to the late Robert McKinney, founder of the class.

Streets Opened For Sledriding

Several streets in the city will be protected for sledriding between the hours of 6 and 9 p. m., Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, when coasting is possible. All cars are to refrain from parking in these areas during those hours, it was announced today by Rees Flannery, director of recreation in New Castle.

These streets and their supervisors include: Albert street from Hillcrest avenue to Sheridan avenue, Sam Fitzgerald; Cascade street from top of the hill to Croton avenue, Alvery Glitch; Con street from Harbor street to Sampson street, Fred Droeder; Delaware avenue from Moody avenue to Park avenue, James McIlvenny; Division street from Cunningham avenue to South Mill street, Anthony Richards; Fourth street from

St. Johns Lutheran To Have Film Service

One of the most unusual films of the year, "For Good or Evil", will be shown Sunday morning, November 26, at a combination service at 9:30 o'clock and 10:45 o'clock in St. John's Lutheran church. The moving picture gives a stewardship message on money, the most coveted of all man's possessions.

Epworth Methodist Plans For Features

Several special features have been planned for Sunday for members of Epworth Methodist church. In the morning at 11 o'clock the yearly thank offering of the Women's Society of Christian Service will be taken. "Love Thy Neighbor", an appropriate film for the Thanksgiving season, will be shown in the evening at 7:45 o'clock. As part of their study of rural congregations, the junior church members will visit Savannah Methodist church Sunday morning.

Evangelist Peacock On Ministers' Hour

Evangelist Nettie B. Peacock will speak Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on WKST during the New Castle Ministerial Hour. Mrs. Peacock has chosen, "The Prayer Life of the Believer" as her sermon theme.

Mrs. Nettie Peacock On Pastors' Hour

Evangelist Mrs. Nettie Peacock of this city will conduct the service Sunday at 2:30 p. m. over radio station WKST. The service is sponsored by the New Castle Ministerial Association. Special music will be provided during the program.

World Day Of Prayer Fund Aids Projects

Two and a half million Americans belong to the agricultural migrant class, according to estimated statistics of our population. Helping the migrant is one of the projects, aided by the World Day of Prayer Funds. The migrant is excluded from the protection of minimum wage and social security. He is also ineligible for local health and welfare services.

A great deal of time is lost in going from place to place, looking for employers. After a job is secured, there may be no work for days or weeks because of weather, crop conditions or slow market. The children have little chance for regular schooling while the adults have the stigma of being migrants.

Surveys Being Made
Increasing public concern for the migrant and his problems has resulted in surveys, recommendations and coordinated programs in several states. President Truman has appointed a special migrant commission to study the situation.

For 30 years an interdenominational ministry to migrants has been administered by the Home Missions council, made possible largely by the annual World Day of Prayer gifts. The program has grown so that 25 states are now covered.

Besides having worship services for the migrants, crafts, counseling, English classes, group recreation and parent-education are provided by the full-time ministers, community workers and state and area supervisors.

Plans for the World Day of Prayer observance on Friday, February 9, are being made by the New Castle United Council of Church Women, of which Mrs. J. F. Rentz is president.

In preparation for the outstanding day in the Christian world, members of the "party cells" and others who are interested will have a meeting Tuesday, December 5, from 1:45 to 3:15 p. m. in the Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren church, 40 South Jefferson street.

Central Presbyterian Westminster Fellowship will gather in the Y. W. C. A. Sunday at 6:30 p. m., when refreshments will be served prior to the meeting.

The state of Utah was named after the Indian tribe of Utes.

TRACTORS ROLL

SAINT-DIZIER—(INS)—Tractors are beginning to roll off the assembly line in a new factory of the Compagnie Internationale de

Machines Agricoles, French subsidiary of the International Harvester company. Construction of the new factory was made possible by an ECA grant of $4,600,000 made only four months ago. Henry Parkman, head of the ECA mission to France, personally drove the first tractor off the line.

Court House

Budget Makeup
Time NearingDepartmental Heads
Preparing Estimates

The "Budget Blues" is the theme song about the court house just now and all departmental heads are singing it.

Departmental heads are preparing estimates of what their departments will need in 1951. The commissioners are looking around for a few nickels they can chop, and the county controller is beginning assembling the various figures.

As the matter stands today the county commissioners believe they can wangle through another year without any increase in taxation. This is merely conjecture at this time and should not be taken as a statement of policy or fact.

LEVINE TO APPEAL

Following a decision of the salary board Friday morning, District Attorney Sherman K. Levine said he would appeal the decision to pay his secretary $165 per month.

Mr. Levine met with the salary board members and said that the secretary he has had, had been married recently and was not a part of his staff now. He has had a temporary secretary who cannot accept the permanent job because of household duties.

Mr. Levine said he had in mind a secretary who was thoroughly competent, had many years of experience back of her in law office work and was worth even more than the $165 he asked. The previous salary had been $150.

"The secretary to the district attorney has a lot of confidential work to do and should be a skilled person who knows the necessity of not revealing that confidential work," he said. "It is difficult, almost impossible, to get competent secretaries for $150 per month," said he, "and I ask the salary board to increase the salary to $165 per month. On vote Mr. Levine and Commissioner Joseph

W. Gilmore voted yes. Commissioners Harvey B. Bush and Joseph F. Travers and County Controller Andrew M. Dadds voted no.

CITY'S POPULATION

Apparently commercial companies get the official census before the cities and counties are notified.

In the office of Register and Recorder Edward McConaha a calendar for 1951 has arrived. It contains the 1940 and 1950 census figures for the larger cities of the United States. New Castle is listed as having 48,563 persons as against 47,638 in 1940.

APPRECIATE GRUB

Prisoners in the county jail have written two "fan" letters to Mrs. Frank L. Coen, matron of the jail. The men on the county side and the men on the city side wrote letters of appreciation for the tasty Thanksgiving dinner to Mrs. Coen.

Use Bulldozers To Clear Lane In City Streets

Snow reigned supreme today, and as a result, motor traffic was practically at a standstill. Persons who ordinarily use their own cars, or Shenango Valley Transportation buses, were forced to trudge laboriously through deep snow to places of employment. According to the weatherman, snow will continue to fall tonight and part of Sunday. Shenango Valley company buses were either stalled, or in the garage, and officials of the company stated that prospects for operation are not good. The buses operated until 2:55 a.m. today, but one, which tried to climb Highland avenue hill this morning became stuck at Stewart Place. Some motorists took a chance at driving to work. Some cars managed to get through the snow. In the tracks made by the wheels, men and women journeying to work, trudged, and found the walking easier than on un-cleared sidewalks. Cars and trucks were stuck in all sections of the city, especially on the hillside streets. Most of them were covered with snow a foot or two deep, evidence they had become stuck early this morning and abandoned where they stopped. Police cars were stalled. However, early this morning the police department managed to get one car in operation. E. Gene Schweinsberg, director of streets, had the street department workers trying to combat the elements. Streets Commissioner Joseph O'Leary and Schweinsberg procured the use of three bulldozers when snow prevented operation of the grader and trucks. The grader and trucks were blocked by snow from leaving the Grove Street department, hence the call for bulldozers. Both said that the bulldozers would operate north, east, and south, forcing snow aside to provide open lanes for traffic to flow. City officials also requested that property-owners remove snow from sidewalks as soon as possible to make walking easier for pedestrians.

Plan To Open Part Of Western Turnpike Soon

HARRISBURG, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Opening of ten and a half miles of the western extension of the Turnpike "before the end of the year" was predicted today by Chairman T. J. Egan. The four-lane divided Super-Highway to be opened to motorists in advance of completion of the entire 67-mile project will run from Irwin to the Pittsburgh interchange at the junction with U. S. Route 22, Evans reported. He announced that traffic on the eastern extension has increased steadily since being opened last Monday. Approximately 4,000 vehicles used the eastern extension which stretches from Middlesex to King of Prussia, on the first day and by Thanksgiving Day the total had more than tripled, according to Egan.

Railroader Is Burned At Work

James Hazen, 28 years, of 23 North Mercer street, was treated for burns at the New Castle hospital this morning at 3:30 o'clock. Mr. Hazen, an employee of the Pennsylvania railroad, suffered burns to the front part of his body and the small fingers of his left hand. In some manner, his clothes caught on fire while at work this morning. His condition is good, the hospital reported.

CITY COMES BACK
PORTLAND, ORE.—(INS)—The captain of one of the first ships built since the war in atom-bombed Hiroshima reports the city has made a strong comeback and is half rebuilt. Captain S. Yamamoto asserts the city's largest industry, the shipyard and engine works, has revived to such an extent that it now has 4,500 workers and three ships on the ways. His ship, the S. S. Tarushima Maru, is a 7,400-ton freighter on the "wheat run" between Portland and Japan. It carried 6,000 tons of wheat to Japan after making its first port of call at Portland. George M. Pullman declared he got the idea for his sleeping cars from the double-deck bunks used in the Colorado mining camps during the gold-rush.

LOCAL STORE OPENS XMAS SEASON

The largest store in this community ushers in the Christmas season Monday, Nov. 27th. The Paul D. Weller Hardware announces that its stock of toys and gifts is more complete than any year heretofore. Mr. Weller reminds his customers that purchases of Xmas merchandise is made 8 to 9 months previous to the season to guarantee lower prices and greater selections.

The extensive line this year necessitated the opening of a newly remodeled basement showroom.

The store's program for '50 includes visits from Santa, the first of these, Monday Nite 7-9 p. m., free gifts, pictures with Santa, lay-away plan, budget plan and a new service, free gift wrapping.

A complete line of appliances, sporting goods, tools, gifts and toys is presented.

Today's Fashion Flash
By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS)—Spring, 1951, is for dry cleaners! New York's classiest designers and manufacturers predict this week that by next season, everything fashion-right must be light.

Texts for the naptha and laundrette set is the definite trend toward all-white ensembles. Experts say that nothing will be "smarter" for spring than a white dress, suit and coat, accented with black accessories.

Next in importance as spring colors will be pale pinks, pale blues, pale champagnes, pale lavenders and off-whites. Chamois—A shade that can sometimes bluff through two wearings without cleaning—isn't on the color calendar.

Elkins Brothers Wins Decision; Rex Layne Winner Over Walcott

Decision Favoring Local Battler Is Unpopular One

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS).—Elkins Brothers, New Castle, Pa., heavyweight, won the eight-round semi-final bout at Madison Square Garden last night by decision after Cuba's Omelio Agramonte had floored him in the seventh round. The decision favoring Brothers, who scaled in at 190½ pounds, was unpopular and caused an uproar in the Garden.

The 192-pound Agramonte toppled Brothers at the end of the seventh frame. Brothers was down for a count of five when the bell rang.

Despite his near KO, Brothers in the last round apparently saved enough of his earlier lead to win the decision.

The award by the judges was an upset for Agramonte who had been a 1-2 favorite.

Pitt And State Game Called Off

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—(INS).—The Pitt-Penn State football game scheduled for this afternoon in Pittsburgh, was postponed today because of a 20-some inch snow which blanketed the field and paralyzed traffic in the area. The game will be played next Saturday.

Officials of the two schools agreed to the postponement at 10:45 a.m. when it became obvious the field was in no condition for use.

BOSTON TROUNCED

STOCKTON, Cal., Nov. 25.—(INS).—The College of Pacific Tigers went on a touchdown rampage last night, beating the Terriers of Boston University by a score of 55 to 7 on a fog-bound playing field.

Papa Etchinson Favors Son In Bout With Buddy

Ronald Etchinson who wrestles the French-Canadian champ, Jules La Rance in The Arena, next Wednesday night, can beat Nature Boy, or Buddy Rogers, according to "Papa" Etchinson, who like his son, is active in mat bouts which are televised throughout the country.

According to reports, "Papa" Etchinson is ready to wager $1,000, on the outcome of a Nature Boy vs. Ronald Etchinson bout, and Ronald's dad says he has no fear of losing, according to reports.

However, against Jules La Rance, here Wednesday night, Etchinson will have to wrestle his best, because the French-Canadian "stole" the show which was held at Beaver Falls last Saturday night.

Good Bout Wednesday

Etchinson, like Bobby Ford, is a fair faced youngster, whose features are akin to those of movie stars. Both have Adonis-like forms, which show the result of training. There will be a Tag and also another straight fall match and indications point to a lot of women seeing the bout, the Jefferson A. C. having arranged to cut prices to favor women attendance.

According to Tommy Leach, matchmaker, they'll be given a seat in what is to be known as the women's section on the ring floor of The Arena. In fact, they'll be admitted for one half of the general admission cost which is sixty cents, Leach reports.

Heavy Snow Holds Doe Hunters Here

Heavy snowfall which has been falling since five a. m. Friday, has foiled some doe hunters who have been forced to delay their trip to the Big Woods. Many groups planned to motor today and also Sunday to their camps to be ready for nine o'clock Monday, when doe season comes in. With a heavy snowfall here, probabilities are that the snow is deeper the farther north one travels, hence many doe hunters will delay or cancel their hunting trip.

Four Considered As Cards Manager

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 25.—(INS).—President Fred Saigh of the St. Louis Cardinals said today only four candidates remain in the running to fill the vacant Cardinal managerial post.

But he added that he plans to see four more candidates before he announces his final decision next Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Cardinal owner, who has just returned from a junket to the east, gave no hint as to the identities of any of the 21 men he has interviewed and emphatically denied that "Marty Marion or anybody else has the inside track."

Miami Defeats Iowa 14 To 6

MIAMI, Nov. 25.—(INS).—The unbeaten Miami Hurricanes, fighting for an Orange Bowl bid, turned back the constantly threatening Iowa Hawkeyes 14 to 6 last night before 45,000 football fans at Miami.

The Hurricanes held their eight-point lead at halftime and then hung on grimly against repeated Iowa drives in the scoreless second half. The Hawkeyes pushed the ball to the Miami one-yard line as the game ended.

The victory ran Miami's season record to eight wins and a single tie.

Mrs. Willie Pep Seeking Divorce

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 25.—(INS).—Former featherweight king Willie Pep, whose sudden marriage forced postponement of a fight in Washington last July, is being sued for divorce by his bride of four months.

Pep was married in Elkton, Md., July 8.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

HERE AND THERE today received from Sergt. Edward Pieringer, now fighting in Korea, two flags, one of South Korea and the other of North Korea. Accompanying the flags was a letter as follows: "Just a short note to say 'Hello to the folks back in New Castle'. I do not suppose you remember me, so I will introduce myself. A few months ago while on leave, prior to departing for Korea, I had a short chat with you and Mr. Travers, in North Mercer street. But, to get back to the purpose of this letter. The other day north of Pyongyang, we 'liberated' a few North Korean flags, so I thought the folks back home would like to see one, first hand. I am also sending a South Korean flag. Every town we enter in North Korea seems to be 'hopping' with South Korean flags. It also seems to me that there are more South Koreans north of the 38th line than there are south of it."

The North Korean flag has a blue border, a thin white stripe and the center of the flag is red, with a huge red star inside a white background. The South Korean flag is on white muslin, with a round red and black symbol of eternity in the middle. In each corner of the South Korean flag are six black lines, denoting what, the writer does not know.

APPARENTLY the easiest way to kill a deer is to drive along a highway and hit one with an auto, several having been either killed or injured in Lawrence county this week. The game protector gave the meat to different institutions. . . Don't shoot at a doe Monday morning before 9 a.m. and whatever one does, do not shoot in any county, at a buck, until Wednesday morning. . . Some deer hunters already have gone into the Big Woods to put their camps into condition. . . When the Detroit Lions upset the New York Yankees Thanksgiving day, it was a big upset, and Red Grange, once famous 77 of Illinois, commented that judging from the way the Lions played, he could not see any other team beating them, if they continued to play as they did Thanksgiving day. . . Sammy Berg, who wrestles here next Wednesday night, made a hit in Chicago Wednesday night, according to those who watched him on T-V. He meets Billy Venable in the semi-final to the Jules La Rance vs. Ronald La France main mat bout. . . Jefferson A.C. intends to hold Ladies night next Wednesday. Woman patrons will be admitted at a cut rate. . . Latest foreign importation to make good in American sports is Joe Culmone, who emigrated here from Italy four years ago. He is the leading jockey in the country today, topping such veterans as Johnny Londen and Ted Atkinson. Who says America no longer holds opportunities?

REPORTS SAY that Billy, Pat and Mike Frenkel and Adam Esposito, burned recently in a gas explosion at Frenkel's, Route 422, are improving in the New Castle hospital. Here & There visited Billy in connection with a newspaper story that night, but departed before the explosion occurred. In his young days, Billy was a popular light-weight at the Jolly Bowl, after which he fought in and around Boston, Mass. . . Should the snow continue in rural districts, fox hunting will be in order. . . John Trushel, former county detective and postal inspector, who has been in California for years, enjoyed the first snowfall in several years. . . Frank McQuaid, Pittsburgh correspondent for The Ring, writes that "Joe Perry" who appeared as the referee in "Right Cross" formerly boxed under the name of Russ Clark. . . It is reported that Charlie Scaglione and Romeo Pacelli may hook up together, the former as manager and the latter as a tutor of boxing proteges. Charlie is seeking a place for a gymnasium, the report says. Boxing, which is in the doldrums now, will make a "come-back" as soon as a young heavyweight shows promise of getting somewhere. His progress will inspire others to enter the sport.

Army Of Deer Hunters Awaiting Anxiously For Monday Morning

By CARL A. ROGAN
(I.N.S. Outdoor Writer)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—Perhaps many of you aren't too happy about the coming of winter, but there are several thousand citizens of Pennsylvania who are.

They are the ones awaiting the deer hunting season, which begins Monday, except in 15 counties closed for the two-day Doe season.

The counties closed by petition this year are Bedford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Elk, Franklin, Fulton, Juniata, Mifflin, Perry, Pike, Snyder and Sullivan. Delaware county, a metropolitan area, also is closed.

Buck Season Wednesday

Wednesday the Buck season takes over in all counties but Delaware.

Eligible to hunt are more than 500,000 persons with licenses, farmers who need no permit to hunt on their own and adjoining lands, and servicemen and disabled veterans who get free licenses.

Antlerless deer are legal game the first two days, and the Buck season follows for ten days, excluding Sunday when shooting is prohibited.

The first day shooting hours are from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Thereafter, hours are 7 a. m. to 5 p. m., daily.

As usual, only one deer can be taken per hunter. Spikes are illegal, of course, at all times. Bucks must have two or more points to one antler to be legal.

Drive Careful—Wear Red

While many Pennsylvania residents are shivering in the current cold spell, hunters perhaps are the happiest people around. Some hunters will rely on the snow to track wounded deer. Tracking, however, isn't as popular as it used to be, although it's probably the best way to hunt with success.

There is at least one major hazard in the early snow. A heavy fall can cause shooters enroute to their cabins or lodges to have unfortunate accidents.

So drive carefully.

One other thing: Be sure to wear enough red for safety. And be sure you know what you are shooting before pulling the trigger.

Deride Big Ten For Action On Michigan State

State Denies All Bowl Bids

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 25.—(INS).—Dissatisfaction has been voiced again in the attitude of the western conference towards its newest member, Michigan State college.

The Indianapolis News, in a front page editorial, commented: "For some time the feeling has been prevalent that big-time football is getting too commercial and too big for its britches. And the dog-in-the-manger attitude of the Big Ten, toward . . . Michigan State, will do little to dispel that belief."

"In as neat a bit of Philadelphia lawyering as has come down the pike in many a year, the Big Ten has ruled that:

"(A) Michigan State is not a member of the conference, so its football team—unbeaten in three Big Ten games—is not eligible to play in the Rose Bowl, and

"(B) Michigan State is a member of the conference, so it cannot play in any of the other bowl games."

"This may be strictly according to conference rules, but it hardly exemplifies the spirit of fair play and sportsmanship which intercollegiate competition purports to foster."

"The Big Ten? It all depends on how you interpret the word 'big'."

Brion Gets Ready To Battle Louis

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(INS).—Cesar Brion, an Argentine who hopes to knock Joe Louis south of the border next Wednesday night impressively boxed two rounds each with two sparring partners in Chicago yesterday in preparation for his big bout.

Chicago stadium promoters expect a $60,000 gate for the 10-round bout next week.

Youthful Utah Fighter Upsets Camden Veteran

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(INS).—Youthful Rex Layne was a new entry today in the heavyweight sweepstakes, although what the International Boxing club plans to do with him is another matter.

Layne, 22-year-old ex-paratrooper from Lewiston, Utah, won a unanimous but highly unexpected decision over ancient Jersey Joe Walcott last night in a ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden before a meager 5,985 spectators.

The westerner, billed as a latter-day Jack Dempsey, was scarcely that. Walcott, who fought three times for the heavyweight title before Layne look awkward and immature until Jersey Joe's near 40 years caught up with him.

Layne Aggressive

Layne won strictly on aggressiveness and stamina. He nearly lost on a TKO. Garden physician Dr. Vincent Nardiello twice examining a cut above Rex's left eye that dropped blood from the third round on.

Walcott weighed a flabby 201 to Layne's 192.

Both judges gave Layne six rounds and called one even. Referee Ruby Goldstein, the man who scored Walcott the winner over Joe Louis in the same ring in 1947, was less charitable. He, too, gave Layne six but called two even.

For Jersey Joe it appeared the end of the boxing trail at last.

For Wayne it was the 26th victory in 29 pro fights.

Dougherty Signs With Wheeling

Joe Dougherty, ex-Elwood City and Duquesne court star, has signed with the Wheeling Blues of the All-American League.

Dougherty played 4 years of varsity ball at Duquesne under Chick Davies and Duddy Moore.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—(INS).—The University of Pennsylvania announced today appointment of Mort Berry, former Philadelphia Inquirer sports writer, as sports publicity director.

Berry succeeds Edward J. Hunter, promoted to the university's general news publicity department.

WHY HANDICAP AN INDUSTRY WHOSE SERVICES ARE NEEDED?

These are days of tension and speed. The government's decision to build an ample defense corps means more equipment of all kinds, most of which needs to be trucked.

Factories and mills are urging speed of deliveries, the equipment is needed and the motor truck industry is straining every fibre to deliver the goods.

But in Pennsylvania the motor truck industry is handicapped from doing its best by archaic weight limits. The law which has been upon the books for years says 62,000 pounds is the maximum gross load. But through legalistic huffer-mugger the law is loaded with provisions that make it impossible to haul what is said to be a legal load, save on equipment that is not as safe as it should be.

Let's take off the handcuffs from the industry and permit it to do the job of which it is capable. The job for which the nation is crying.

Let's give the trucking industry a fair deal.

Bessemer Scouts Meet At School

Girl Scouts of Troop 8 met at the Bessemer grade school on Tuesday, November 21, with scouts of the fifth and sixth grades welcoming junior high scouts to a Pilgrim party.

Long black skirts and pilgrim headresses were the official costume, with Mrs. Mary Percie, as Miles Standish, the only pilgrim gentleman present. The hostesses, working on their second class badge with their leader, Mrs. Denise Mehoch, had made clever invitations, favors and pilgrim hats.

A clever original skit on "The Courtship of Miles Standish" was presented in the modern vernacular, starring Kay Nord, Nancy Rich, Carolyn Boy, Linda Swanson and Cecile Kuchik. Delicious refreshments were later served by the girls.

Judy Olson, president, conducted the business meeting. Reports were given by Diane Stanley, secretary, and treasurer, Phyllis Snyder. The secretary is to write a letter of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Vendemia for the use of their display window during Girl Scout week. It was decided to distribute T.B. posters and to remember Carol Robb who is in the hospital. New officers will be elected at the next meeting. Junior high scouts discussed care of the hands and completed their "good grooming" charts. Manicuring was demonstrated by leaders Eleanor Snyder and Mary Percie, with Phyllis Stanich as the model. At the next meeting, Mrs. Helen Ducie will discuss care of the hair and individual hair styling. Further work on the bicycle will be completed when weather permits. Chief of Police Frank Clark instructed the scouts on state laws and safety rules concerning cyclists.

Local Airmen Are Completing Courses

Pvt. Thomas E. Lusk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Lusk, of R. D. 1, New Wilmington; and Pvt. C. W. Goddard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Goddard, Route 2, Wampum, are completing AF basic airman indoctrination courses at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Buffalo is the second city in population in New York state.

Preparing For Attack On Rats In Lawrence Co.

All farmers in Lawrence County have been urged by the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association to take part in the intensified effort which will be made early next month to rid county farms of rats, which annually take a tremendous toll because of the damage they do.

Not only do rats cause a lot of damage to property, but they are also disease carriers. They breed rapidly and travel far. The use of poison bait is one of the most effective means of rat control. Fortified red squill, which will be used in the campaign here on December 7, is poisonous to rats but relatively safe for other animals.

Deadline Is Wednesday

Orders are now being taken by the committee named at a recent meeting of interested Lawrence County farmers. The deadline is November 29, and orders must be paid for when the order is placed. The average amount needed for the average farm is around four or five pounds. If there is a heavy infestation of rats, more should be used.

The bait will be mixed on Saturday morning, December 7. Arrangements can be made with the person taking the order for the point of delivery. The bait will be placed late Thursday afternoon, December 7.

Experience has shown, the committee states, that for the most effective kill, the rats should be enticed with hamburger or something similar for a night or two before the poison bait is put out. George H. Hogue, R. D. 2, Enon Valley, chairman of this year's effort, announces the following committee, which will assist in the effort this year. All R. D. numbers are New Castle, except where otherwise listed.

Committee Named

LOST STUDENT

FOREST GROVE, Ore.—(INS)—The Pacific University Registrar now realizes the small private school is large enough to "lose" a student for three weeks. When the registrar's office asked the mother of freshman Thomas McCauley why he had not appeared, she replied, "If Tom is not at Pacific, where is he?" Search disclosed McCauley had paid his fees and attended classes three weeks but had not turned in his registration cards.

Sergt. McClendon Is Given Commission As Second Lieutenant

Staff Sergeant Roy E. McClendon, 128 East Center Way, received a direct commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force Reserve for which he applied prior to being called to active duty with the 433rd Troop Carrier Wing, now stationed at Greenville Air Force Base, South Carolina.

Until he is recalled to duty as an officer, Sergeant McClendon will continue in the capacity of an administration specialist with the Wing's Air Police Squadron.

Sergeant McClendon was graduated from New Castle high school. He was an honor student and a member of the orchestra and a Capella choir. He majored in political science at Oberlin college and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in June, 1950.

During World War II, he served thirty two months in the India-Burma theatre where he was chief clerk in a motor pool assigned to the 61st Air Service Group.

Sgt. McClendon joined the 433rd Wing on November 17, 1949. For the fiscal year ending in July of this year he was awarded the Outstanding Airmen Award for the Wing's Air Base Group.

Bethany Lutherans To See Film Sunday

"For Good or Evil," a dramatic and true-to-life motion picture about the Christian's use of money, will be shown at Bethany Lutheran church Sunday morning, November 26, at 10:45 o'clock. It was announced by Rev. Paul E. Wallhouse, the pastor.

This is the first religious film that has been made with dialogue sound completely on location. The picture was produced in an eastern rural town to give the story every possible bit of authentic flavor. The cast and technical crew came from Hollywood and New York to Arendtsville, Pa., to make the film the fifth one in a series of stewardship pictures made by Cathedral Films of Hollywood for the United Lutheran Church in America. All roles were played by the townspeople except the leads.

While the picture was being made, devotional services were conducted. This film is being shown as part of Bethany Lutheran church stewardship program of C. E. Turner, A. E. Reynolds, that will be climaxed by an every C. C. Powell, F. W. Dengler, John member canvass December 10. The Hardy and George Macom.
